

Partnering for a responsible supply chain

We are proudly backed by the Halls Group, a South African -rooted organisation with over 100 years of pioneering excellence and a deep commitment to long-term sustainability. As a group we're united by a shared purpose of creating 'A Better Tomorrow', where every decision we make and every action we take is driven by one goal: to create a positive and lasting impact on the world.

Why responsible sourcing matters

As a group, we believe growth should never come at the expense of people, communities or the planet. We're committed to ESG principles – environmental sustainability, social fairness, and strong governance – and we're taking proactive steps to ensure our supply chain reflects these values.

As a result, we maintain a Responsible Sourcing Initiative across all Coaxle companies. Our aim is simple: to build stronger, more transparent supplier relationships with partners who share our commitment to sustainability and ethical practices.

What this means for you

At this stage, our goal is to raise awareness of the initiative among our valued suppliers. As we move toward full implementation, your participation will not only help align us with global sustainability standards—it's also a powerful opportunity to strengthen our collective reputation, create long-term value, stay competitive in a rapidly evolving world, and drive meaningful change.

This isn't about ticking boxes. It's about real progress, made together. We'll soon be sharing more details, including clear guidelines and dedicated support to help you engage fully and confidently with the initiative. In the meantime if your organisation holds any certifications – such as SIZA, BSCI, SMETA, SA8000, ISO 20400, B Corp, or similar – please share them with us.

Purpose in action
